Andy Kim is a senior associate and trial lawyer who has successfully taken several multi-million dollar disputes from pre-litigation to verdict and appeal. He has broad experience litigating in state and federal court, spearheading board investigations, and advising clients on issues of corporate governance and securities regulation. He has worked on complex matters across industries—including entertainment, energy, and healthcare—but is particularly versed in legal issues affecting tech companies, startups, and their founders and investors.

Andy joined LPHS after clerking in the Fifth Circuit and practicing at Am Law 100 firms in San Francisco and New York. A Dallas native, Andy studied labor relations and English literature at Cornell University. There, he was a member of the University's "400 Club," a distinction reserved for student-athletes who achieve a 4.00 GPA. He received his law degree from New York University School of Law, where he was an editor of the NYU Law Review and Korematsu Chair for NYU's Asian Pacific American Law Students Association. Andy has clerked for judges at both the trial and appellate levels.

Andy maintains an active pro bono practice across causes such as education and voting rights. He is a Partner with Social Venture Partners Dallas, where he has advised non-profits on issues of corporate governance and entity formation. Outside of work, he enjoys synthesizers, nerd history, and aquascaping.
