Britta Stanton is a seasoned trial lawyer with over 21 years of experience representing businesses in high-stakes commercial litigation. A trusted advocate in state and federal courts nationwide, she is known for her strategic approach and ability to win at trial. Britta joined LPHS in 2003, became a partner in 2011, and after honing her skills as a trial consultant, rejoined the firm as a partner in 2022.

Corporate clients rely on Britta for her sharp litigation instincts, persuasive advocacy, and business-minded approach to dispute resolution. Her reputation as a formidable, trial-ready attorney gives her clients a critical advantage in settlement negotiations, often leading to favorable resolutions without the need for trial. When litigation is unavoidable, she is a relentless advocate in the courtroom, presenting complex business disputes in a clear and compelling way that resonates with judges and juries.

Britta also brings a unique expertise in visual advocacy and jury strategy, having worked with trial teams across the country to refine case narratives, select juries, and develop courtroom techniques. Her ability to translate complex legal and business issues into persuasive trial presentations is a key differentiator in high-stakes cases.

She holds a Bachelor of Science in Communications from the University of Texas and is actively involved in the legal and business communities. She has served as chair of the Advisory Committee for the Northern District of Texas courts and as a member of the Patrick E. Higginbotham American Inn of Court.

Outside the courtroom, Britta is an active member of First United Methodist Church in downtown Dallas. She and her husband stay busy raising their four children.
